About Heraeus

Solutions from the Heraeus Group provide faster internet, rid water of germs, and keep hearts beating in time. As a broadly diversified and globally leading family-owned technology company, we combine materials expertise and technological leadership to create the most diverse products, all with one thing in common: World-class quality.

About Heraeus Conamic

We are one of the leading materials specialists for the production and processing of high-purity quartz glass and other high-grade materials such as ceramics and novel composites. Our innovative products enable the production of state-of-the-art semiconductor chips or medical lasers for minimally invasive surgical procedures through flexible optical fibers. As a global player with over 1,400 employees, we have sites in the USA, UK, Germany, China and Korea. Our ambition is to become a leader on the topic of sustainability in our energy-intensive industry.

The following challenges await you:

- Participate in a comprehensive training program covering all aspects of supply chain management, inventory control, procurement, logistics and operations.
- Apply knowledge gained in training to real-world situations within the company, working closely with cross-functional teams.
- Assist in identifying and implementing process improvements within the supply chain.
- Gain experience with advanced supply chain software and technology and use data analysis to optimize operations.
- Contribute to problem-solving and decision-making strategies related to inventory management, demand forecasting and distribution.
- Develop a broad understanding of operational strategies, compliance and sustainable business practices.
- Participate in key projects and responsibilities under the mentorship of industry leaders, providing valuable insights and strategies to drive the company's success.

Your Profile:

- Bachelor's degree in business administration, supply chain management or related field
- Exceptional analytical, communication and presentation skills
- Strong aptitude for technology and willingness to learn new systems
- Capability to perform well in a dynamic and rapidly changing environment
- Demonstrated leadership potential and initiative-taking
- An eagerness to dive into issues, identify potential solutions and take ownership of tasks
- Willingness to grow and develop within the company and demonstrate a long-term commitment
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite, specifically Excel
- Fluent in English and German

Your Benefits:

- Making things happen - exciting tasks that impact the entire organization
- Shaping the future - solving the critical issues of tomorrow
- Open space – come up with fresh ideas, take ownership and grow with the scope of your work
- Attractive compensation - in addition to the good remuneration package, there are rich social benefits of a responsible family business
- And much more - 30 days vacation
